ABSTRACT

This directory compiles information on Montana agencies, schools, colleges, and programs concerned with American Indian education. The first section covers educational agencies, associations, and resources. A brief annotated bibliography describes 10 books for educators. Contact information is provided for the Board of Public Education, the Certification Standards and Practices Advisory Council, education program offices of the Bureau of Indian Affairs, tribal education directors, Johnson O'Malley program administrators, the Montana Advisory Council for Indian Education, MEA/MFT (Montana Education Association/Montana Federation of Teachers) field offices and minority affairs caucus, the Montana-Wyoming Indian Education Association Board of Directors, national Indian education organizations, and departments of the Montana Office of Public Instruction. URLs are given for Web sites related to Indian education and curriculum development. The second section provides contact information for Head Start programs on Montana Indian reservations, public schools on or near reservations, public urban schools, tribal contract and private schools, bilingual education programs, and Title IX (ESEA) federal projects. The third section provides contact information for tribal colleges, the American Indian Higher Education Consortium, institutions in the Montana university system, public community colleges, private colleges, the Montana Board of Regents, TRIO programs, and outreach sites of the Educational Opportunity Center. The fourth sections lists relevant local, state, tribal, and federal government resources, and newspapers and radio and television stations on Montana reservations. (SV)

BOOKS FOR EDUCATORS

- Cajete, Gregory. Look to the Mountain: An Ecology of Indigenous Education, Durango, CO: Kivaki Press, 1994. 243 pages

  Offers a look at education from a Native perspective. Explains an indigenous form of education that could supplement or substitute for the current linear system of education. Weaves the traditional symbols and Indigenous American social customs into the modern educational practices of the United States of America. Respectful, multifaceted and interesting read.

- Cleary, Linda Miller and Peacock, Thomas D. Collected Wisdom: American Indian Education, Needham Heights, MA: Allyn & Bacon, 1998. 272 pages

  How do cultural differences and real-world issues affect the education of students, in this case, American Indian students? What approaches have real teachers found that work well with American Indian students? This book answers these and more thoughtful questions about teaching in today's diverse school communities using the voices of teachers. This book is an excellent resource for new and practicing teachers seeking to enhance their awareness and teaching methods to meet the needs of today's diverse classrooms.

- Fedullo, Mick. Light of the Feather: A Teacher's Journey into Native American Classrooms and Culture, New York, NY; Anchor Books, 1992. 256 pages

  Chronicles Fedullo's unique journey into the heart of contemporary Native America, describing how one white man crossed the cultural divide to discover, among his Native American students, old and new values, the determination of the human spirit, and, ultimately, himself.

- Foley, Douglas E. The Heartland Chronicles, Philadelphia, PA: University of Pennsylvania Press, 1995. 228 pages

  A study by a non-Indian anthropologist returning to his hometown in Iowa. His study is a multilayered historical account incorporating the perspectives of both the white and Mesquaki Indian groups. His research results in a complex portrayal of the double structuring of perceptions of people on opposite sides of a cultural border.

- Howard, Gary R. We Can't Teach What We Don't Know: White Teachers, Multiracial Schools, New York, NY: Teachers College Press, 1999. 141 pages

  Gary Howard takes his readers on a journey of personal and professional transformation through his 25 years of experience as a multicultural educator. He looks deeply into the mirror of his own racial identity to discover what it means to be a culturally competent white teacher in racially diverse schools.

- Huff, Delores J. To Live Heroically: Institutional Racism and American Indian Education, Albany, NY: SUNY Press, 1997. 211 pages

  Examines American Indian education during the last century, comparing the tribal, mission, and Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) schools and curriculums and the assumptions that each system made about the role Indians should assume in society. It analyzes the relationship between the rise of institutional racism and the fall of public education in the United States using the history of American Indian education.

- Reyhner, John, ed. Teaching American Indian Students, Norman, OK: University of Oklahoma Press, 1992. 328 pages

  The premise of this book is that Indian students can improve their academic performance through educational approaches that do not force students to choose between the culture of their home and the culture of their school. This multidisciplinary volume summarizes the research on Indian education, provides practical suggestions for teachers, and offers a vast selection of resources available on Indian education.

- Slapin, Beverly, and Doris Seale (Santee/Cree), eds., Through Indian Eyes: The Native Experience in Books for Children, Los Angeles, CA: University of California, American Indian Studies Center, 1998 edition. 246 pages, b/w illustrations

  A compilation of work by Native parents, educators, poets, and writers, is for anyone interested in presenting non-biased material about indigenous peoples to children. It contains, from a Native perspective, essays and poetry, critical reviews of more than 100 children's books by and about Indian peoples, a guide to evaluating children's books for anti-Indian bias, a recommended bibliography, and a resource section of Native publishers and organizations.

- Susag, Dorothea M. Roots and Branches: A Resource of Native American Literature – Themes, Lessons, and Bibliographies, Urbana, IL: National Council of Teachers of English, 1998. 310 pages

  Offers teachers a great resource of Native American Literature to use at any level of teaching. Includes annotated bibliography and lesson plans.

- Swisher, Karen Gayton and Tippeconnic, John W. III. Next Steps: Research and Practice to Advance Indian Education, Charleston, WV: ERIC Clearinghouse on Rural Education and Small Schools, 1999. 317 pages

  Next Steps is a collection of essays written by Native researchers on different, important aspects of the state of both K-12 and postsecondary education for Native students across the country today including their history, legal aspects, curriculum, access, and achievement. The breadth of materials present in the essays and the overall insight they offer is impressive. Anyone interested in Indian education or teaching Native students should by all means read this book.

Journal of American Indian Education
http://jaie.asu.edu/
The Journal of American Indian Education is a peer-reviewed scholarly journal, which publishes papers specifically related to the education of American Indians and Alaska Natives. Has many on-line articles.

Curriculum Sites

The Cradleboard Project
http://www.cradleboard.org
Presenting a very important vision for Native American education, this is a project to watch closely. Math and science emphasis, resource CD-ROMs have been created. This project was created by Buffy St. Marie the Cree singer. A great site to explore.

Native Child Pre-3 Curriculum
www.nativechild.com
Curriculum material for preschools with a focus on Native American tribes resources for the classroom, preK-3. Designed for three-to five-year-old children in Native American Head Start centers and preschools, NativeChild's goal is to affirm the Indian child's culture and identity in a positive way through a curriculum that builds self confidence and a sense of belonging. The resources are also developed to help nonnative childhood professionals promote multicultural understanding of Native Americans for both teachers and children.

The Native American History Archive (NAHA)
http://www.ilt.columbia.edu/k12/haha/index.html
A new center for Native American studies in internet-worked classrooms, the NAHA's goal is to provide: easy access to Native American information and organizations, a forum for student discussions and publication of their project work, and tools for Native American research within the networked classroom. The NAHA is designed for use by K-12 students using the Web for classroom projects and includes the Native American Navigator:
http://www.ilt.columbia.edu/k12/naha/nanav.html an inviting interface for geographical, historical, topical and keyword-based student inquiry. Clickable maps, an extensive timeline, a web of topics pages and a site and network-wide search page make up the four corners of the Navigator's Medicine Wheel. Also includes the Inquirer:
http://www.ilt.columbia.edu/k12/naha/inquirer.html a model for collaborative group projects in History, offered as a starting point for teachers seeking authentic uses of the world wide web in their classrooms.

Alaskan Native Knowledge Network
http://ankn.uaf.edu
A major project supported by the National Science Foundation and the Annenberg Rural Challenge to collect and disseminate indigenous curriculum. Combines the Native way of knowing with scientific method.

NITI (National Indian Telecommunications Institute)
http://numa.niti.org
A major project funded by National Science Foundation (NSF) to produce Native math and science curriculum. Models for indigenous K-12 curriculum have been developed and tested. Has innovative ideas, but limited curriculum available.

Trail of Tears
www.childrentheatreplays.com/totl.htm
A Native American theatrical play for K-12 students.

25 great research questions and resources for Native American kids
http://www.nueva.pvt.k12.ca.us/~debbie/library/cur/wk97.html
A nice example of combining relevant issues to Natie American youth with Internet research.

Multicultural Education Sites

Multicultural Pavilion
http://curry.edschool.Virginia.EDU/go/multicultural/
Perhaps the best listing of multicultural resources out there.

Multicultural Curriculum Resources: The Explorer Trail
http://ernie.wmht.org/trail/explor02.htm
Outstanding links to multicultural sites of interest to elementary teachers and students.

Many of these web sites were compiled by Frank Odasz, author of "Echoes in the Electronic Wind: A Native American Cross-cultural Internet Guide". This is available free on-line at http://lone-eagle.com/nativeguide.htm.
